

Reimagining Safety

A Free Movie Screening and Conversation about Policing

The Reimagining Safety documentary includes experts discussing how policing and incarceration create more harm than good, why the system persists, and what changes can be made to make everyone safe.

The panel focus will be on the obstacles, including but not limited to the perceptions of policing and the criminal justice system as well as governmental policy.

The idea of abolition is currently seen as a radical one. Let us engage in a conversation about transforming public safety that is not often held.
